Highly recommended for young readers ages 3 to 8By Midwest Book ReviewIn Everybody Moos At Cows! - Even Matthew McFarland, Lisa Willever asks and answers the critically important question: "Does anyone moo at cows anymore?" The debut title in the Franklin Mason Press "Matthew McFarland" picturebook series, we are introduced to Matthew and the McFarland Family -- a bit old fashioned by today's standards, but in this family the parents are the bosses and the kids (whether they like it or not) do the listening. And Matthew, despite his many efforts, simply cannot talk his parents out of what they know is best! Lisa Willever's humorous, rhyming text is very nicely reinforced and showcased by the lively illustrations of Elaine Poller and Glenn Byrne. A special feature is the reservation of two pages for a "Guest Young Author Illustrator". Highly recommended for young readers ages 3 to 8, and Preschool through third grade. 5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. A fantastic follow-up to Nicky Fifth on Dandelion Court. By Jr. Astronaut's Mom This book is a fantastic follow-up to Nicky Fifth on Dandelion Court. As with that book, I bought this book as a read-aloud for my 4th grade class. Since the book mostly takes place in New Jersey and the 4th grade Social Studies curriculum is New Jersey based, it makes for an enjoyable read. It's nice to read about places you know. This book covers the adventures of Nicky and his family as they learn about, and travel through, their new home state of New Jersey. I highly recommend this book.

Featured on the Rosie O'Donnell Show and in the New York Times, Everybody oos At Cows is the humorous story of the Sunday Ride. Before video games, DVD's, and the internet, when families actually had fun spending time together. The ride was a staple of days gone by, when fun was often free or perhaps the cost of an ice cream cone. Meet Matthew McFarland. He would rather do anything than spend Sunday with his family on a country ride. After all, what nine year old would want to be seen 'mooing' at cows and being chased by a pack of wild geese? Will Matthew be able to outsmart his father? Will Matthew actually have fun?
