Ms. Linda Noskewicz : Gigantic Atomic Farts!: The Holy Adventures of Augustine, M, Jose Sammy (Holy Homework Pennants) (Volume 4) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Gigantic Atomic Farts!: The Holy Adventures of Augustine, M, Jose Sammy (Holy Homework

Pennants) (Volume 4):

Rarely is it possible for an author to successfully mix great humor with religion, but Ms. Noskewicz has done just that in The Holy Adventures of Augustine series. The stories are written from the point of view of a very tough 12 year-old orphan. He shares his witty opinions of the Sisters who live at St. Anne's, the proper occasions for atomic farts, and his first experience in the confessional. Here's a taste of the hilarity inside: Yup. It was just as dark as I thought it'd be. There was a red cushioned kneeler on the floor to match the curtain. An imposing cross was hanging underneath a pick-up window. At least, that's what it looked like to me. I stepped in and made myself at home. "I'd like a bacon double cheeseburger, no pickles, an order of onion rings, and a large chocolate shake to go, please." I told the window. "I'm sorry?" asked an other-worldly voice. I thought I was supposed to be the one apologizing? That clicked in my head and I remembered my lines. "So," I started grandly, "I've done a lot of stuff and not just lately. In fact, I wrote it all down to be thorough. Are you sure you're gonna' have enough time to hear me out?" I heard what sounded like a fart. Was Sammy still in the other box? I hoped not. Otherwise things were going to get toxic in here. I waved my list in front of my face, just in case. The priest was still quiet. I knocked on the wall. "Hey! Are you awake in there?!" Read the entire series for the priest's answer, more laughs, and a lot of poignant insights.
