depression. It arrived in a timely manner and in spic span condition.

This book is a labor of love to share with you the work of Pastor Raymond G. Johnson, who delighted many with his cartoons, humor and artwork. The author and Ray Johnson were Lutheran pastors who found themselves living with the sickness of depression in the middle of their lives. Out of common struggle, they formed a bond as brothers for support and mutual understanding. After Ray Johnson's unexpected and untimely death, his funeral drew other pastors together who had been seminary classmates. They decided to meet monthly for their own mutual support and friendship. This group and the author continued conversation through the intervening years leading finally to the release of this book. Ray's work and life is cherished by all who knew him. Now through this book you can share in his story of wit, wisdom and struggle.
