Warren McClenagan : Reel Livin' before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Reel Livin':

If I didn't know better, I'd swear the author was writing about our Colorado 'camping' trips. Particularly delightful is when he is writing about condensation in the tent. It's wet, windy, below 40 degrees in our little 2-man sleeping tent sleeping five when our oldest one awakens in the middle of the night to announce, "Dad, I think I'm sweating." A couple nights in a dry motel, all the over-the-counter meds we could afford, and we are on our way home to recover from our trip. Then we move on up in the camping world to the 'pop-up', 'pop-down' tent on wheels version with its own unique problems. Thanks Mr. McClenagan for a very entertaining read and to my sis-in-law, Janet, for telling me about it... 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Full of laughs all the way through. By Customer. After just a couple pages I was laughing out loud. When I got to the part about checking the tail lights when hooking up the camper I was laughing so hard I had tears streaming down my cheeks. I had to stop reading to get myself back in control. The author tells it like it is in such a funny way you'll be laughing out loud too! I'm a woman, and have luckily only been camping a couple of times but everything in the book brought back memories I've (gladly) forgotten. Great book. Hysterically funny and well written. Highly recommend! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Loved the book!! By Janet Wommack. Dean (in the book) graduated a year before me from Gruver High School so I was thrilled when I learned about the book. I bought it on my Kindle and practically read it in one sitting!! Needless to say, I laughed out loud over and over again. I suggest that you read the first chapter--free--and you will be hooked. I recommended it to my sister-in-law and she read the free chapter then ordered THREE copies. Warren can really tell a good story--he didn't even bother to change the names. It must be for real!!

As any fisherman ever lucky enough to wet a line in the wilderness knows, nary a working day goes by they don't dream of the smell of pine, a breath of cool crisp mountain air, and a skillet filled with large fat trout. Yet, near that campfire where dreams meet reality, and Murphy tags along, more lures end up in tree bark than trout, camper heaters collect icicles and bears keep fishermen on full alert, pocket knives at the ready. Warren McClenagan shines his flashlight on the trials and tribulations set upon by almost every outdoorsman in their quest for paradise. From the frustrations of erecting a 'simple' tent to the incidental body piercing that occasionally accompanies fly fishing, McClenagan invites readers on a journey of camping and fishing, fathers and sons, and the birth of a legacy known forever as The Brotherhood of Dean.
