There's no better way to learn about an area and to get a real "feel" for it than the musings of a talented local writer. This lady is good. She's down-to-earth and just quirky enough to be interesting. Her stories aren't earth-shaking, but how much of life is? She writes about her family and friends and pets and co-workers. Just every day stuff with the comic twist that some folks have a knack for. I read this book over a year ago and I remember thinking that such a good book should have a better cover. Glad to see that this has been taken care of. I enjoyed it and it's a great funny read by an Englishwoman who has that snarky Brit Wit down pat. P.S. Don't know why I'm not listed as a "Verified Purchaser" unless something got screwed up when the cover was changed. No matter. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. it's fun to read about events from back home especially when ... By Angus Frost As a Brit living in America, it's fun to read about events from back home especially when it's through the eyes and ears of someone real and down to earth like the Author. This collection of articles written by the Author and published in the local newspaper give a very personal view and a wonderful insight in to the day to day life of a working Mom living in Cornwall. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Excellent read By MiddyBlue I thoroughly enjoyed reading this book. Liz Hurley is funny, clever, and gifted. Finding the absurd in the everyday. I recommend it!

When everyday life is anything but everyday. Liz Hurley gathers together her newspaper columns to deliver a collection of fast, funny reads. Join in as you share the highs and lows of a bookseller, dog lover and mother in Britain's finest county. This treasure trove of little gems moves from lifestyle pieces on living day to day, behind the scenes in the UK's number one tourist destination, to opinion pieces on education, current affairs, science, politics and even religion. Watching the sun set over a glowing beach isn't quite so much fun when you are trying to find the keys your child hid in the sand and the tide is coming in! Join in and discover just how hard it is to surf and look glamorous at the same time. Batten down the hatches as she lets off steam about exploding cars and rude visitors. Laugh along and agree or disagree with Liz's opinion pieces, as you discover that although life might not be greener on the other side it's a lot of fun finding out. Scribbles from the Edge is a lovely, light-hearted journal. It will make you laugh out loud, stop and think about larger concerns or just enjoy the beautiful descriptions of a gorgeous world as seen through her eyes. If you enjoy Bill Bryson's observations, Jeremy Clarkson's opinion pieces or Amy Schumer's sarcasm then you are bound to find something here to make you smile or think in these fast, funny reads. Buy Scribbles from the Edge and dive in today!

She appears not to take herself very seriously, but she has a sharp eye and, at times, a very colloquial turn of phrase." - Richard Lewis, author of Sampan and Saffron Cake From the Author For samples and freebies join my mailing list at lizhurleyauthor.com I love to hear from my readers and like to make sure that they are the first to hear about new releases. Book three is on its way, join in the process. About the Author Hailing from Norfolk, Liz Hurley started her working life as a Librarian, working across the country and finally settling in Cornwall. Deciding that she wanted more independence and challenges, she then set up her own bookshop and started writing. SCRIBBLES FROM THE EDGE and LOSING IT IN CORNWALL are collections of her column written for the Cornish Guardian.
